

Share House Ad

HELLO!!

"My friend, Sorj, and I sense God calling us to set up a new creative, Christian, LGBTI inclusive houseshare this January/February, in the inner/outer north.

Once we have four housemates the weekly amount should be around $150-$200, but there may be some time that it's three housemates before finding a fourth in which the cost is more like $200-$250 per week.

We're inspecting houses with extra room for creative space, a garage/workshop for carpentry and messy projects, 2 bathrooms, some garden space and up to date kitchen and air con.

We hope to set up a caring, peaceful and communicative household where we could share meals from time to time and share creative time and space together, pray/worship/bible study with one another at times and potentially host dinner/creative parties from time to time and have family over.

A bit about each of us:

Danyelle, 42 yrs, I have a slow paced life, work part time caring for children and fill the rest of my time with nieces and nephews, creativity like pottery, song writing, poetry, sewing, listening to music, enjoying my cat, walks and hanging out with housemates. I love both socialising and time to myself. I'm a quite positive presence and deep thinker.

Sorj, also 42yrs, I am a professional costume maker specialising in leather armour, I also make giant creature puppets and dabble in fashion. In my spare time I love making unusual furniture, playing PS4, landscaping/gardening, die hard sci fi nerd. like Danyelle I too love socialising but do need quite a bit solo time. Im quite a home body on weekends and love to create engaging spaces to host the occasional event . You will most likely hear music playing in our home a large percentage of the time. I'm friendly and bubbly most of the time and love a good laugh .

If this sounds like your kind of jam, please get in contact. danyellehuc@gmail.com"
